WANDINONG NOTES

Appearing on the cover of the Bushland News for the first time is Wandinong's provisional logo. It features a Tawny Frogmouth with flowering tips of Bursaria either side as supporters. Feedback is welcome. Email your opinion of the design to Dennis Bryans, Secretary, Wandinong Advisory Committee gpp@optusnet.com.au

A new edition of the Wandinong Book is planned. The first edition was published in 1980. The new will be updated, drawing on the Vegetation Action Plan.

VALE - SUE LOCKWOOD AM 21.1.1950 - 11.12.2009

Sue was a member of the Blackburn Lake Sanctuary Advisory Committee since 1995 and chairman for 6 years. In that time Sue provided dedicated leadership in her passionate commitment to improving the environment, not only at the Sanctuary, but also in the wider community. Sue earned wide admiration and respect for her understanding and management of complex issues. Her clear thinking and ease of communication meant she was able to advocate and influence decisions to achieve beneficial outcomes for the environment, particularly focusing on protection and preservation of remnant bushland and retaining green corridors – so vital to the survival of our fragile environment.

As a willing and enthusiastic participant in working bees, Sue used her considerable knowledge of indigenous plants, understanding of revegetation issues and good bushland management techniques to encourage others to become involved with the many Whitehorse bushland parks.

Diagnosed with breast cancer 16 years ago, with the then newly formed Breast Cancer Action Group, Sue worked tirelessly to ensure that women with Breast cancer have a voice in decision making about breast health issues. With a microbiology and biochemistry background and experience as a scientific information specialist with CSIRO, she led developments in research, quality assurance and practical support for women with breast cancer.

What a woman! She is sorely missed, and we are all the better for having known her.

Thank you Sue.

JOTTINGS

New Bridge ✧

You can now complete a circular walk through Furness Park via the wonderful new bridge at the eastern end. It has been a long campaign to achieve funding for this great new asset for park users and we thank Central Ward Councillors past and present, Council Officers, and Melbourne Water Officers who have supported the project and brought it to fruition. Planting around the approaches will be done in autumn.

✧ All Abilities Swing in Furness Park

After consultation with the local community and the Creeklands Advisory Committee, Whitehorse Council will commence installing an all abilities swing in the Furness Park playground beside Heath Street, during March. This welcome development increases the range of equipment available, and will enable more children to join in the fun.

✧ Re-Alignment of the Path near Bowls Club

Safety concerns were raised about a section of the path in Kalang Park near the Bowls Club where it ran close to a steepish section of the creek bank. After due consultation the path was realigned and a buffer area will be planted out in autumn, which once mature will form a protective barrier.

Storm Damage ✧

In early December last year a fierce storm with very strong winds whipped through central Blackburn. Many branches were torn off trees and bushes, and a number of precious mature eucalypts either broke, or were torn out by the roots. The damage was severe. Major damage also occurred to a number of houses in the vicinity. On the positive side, broken branches do promote the development of nesting hollows, and are part of the natural cycle, but the loss of whole trees is quite a blow. It is the usual practice in bushland reserves to leave fallen timber to contribute to habitat.

Weeding

Weeds will always be with us, and controlling them is a major concern of all the Advisory Committees. Some weeding is done at public working bees (see dates elsewhere in newsletter), some by regular small groups of volunteers, and some by ParksWide staff. Volunteers are really needed and valued.

The Blackburn Creeklands has a Monday morning group which concentrates on weeding sensitive areas.

If you can join them, please ring Mary Crouch on 9894 3025

The Blackburn Lake Sanctuary has the Tuesday Weeders who meet at the Halley Street entrance at 9.30am.

PLEASE....Don't feed the ducks. It makes me fat and sick! I feel awful! Aaargh!

one of the most prevalent weeds in the reserves.
It produces copious seeds at various times of the year.

A Load of Old Rubbish!

Last year, Laburnum PS Grade 5 and Box Hill HS Year 9 students explored issues affecting our waterways and found that litter was one of the major issues. They took part in a SEED (Students Engaging Exploring & Doing) project, sponsored by the Education Dept. and the City of Whitehorse, and were assisted by the Blackburn Lake Sanctuary Education Program volunteers and Creekland Advisory Committee members. The students produced many thought provoking multi-media awareness displays which they took out into the local community

Have you ever visited Blackburn Lake Sanctuary or the Blackburn Creeklands, noticed unsightly rubbish, and wondered where it comes from? Most litter is not dropped in the parks, but is found near or in the water. Blackburn Lake, and downstream Gardiners Creek flowing through the Blackburn Creeklands, are entirely fed by storm water which drains from local streets, private properties, and commercial areas. It flows on to the Yarra and rubbish eventually reaches the Bay. Big litter traps are strategically placed to filter water before it enters the Lake, but in heavy rain some material will still get through. After rain, you may notice plastic bottles and wrappings, polystyrene packaging and garden clippings all caught in the reeds (which is their function and purpose).

We are so fortunate in our beautiful local environment! Let's strive to preserve it for our continued enjoyment, now and for years to come.

What Can You Do?

Pick up rubbish whenever you see it, not just on Clean Up Australia Day*

Dispose of rubbish thoughtfully*

Recycle whenever possible*

Keep garden rubbish out of the drains*

Pick up your dog's droppings and bin them*

Please, please, do not dump your garden waste in any of the bushland parks !!

It is unsightly, and often contains invasive weeds, exotic seeds and diseases we are trying to keep out of the reserves. It decays into the water, affecting water quality and damaging wetland wildlife by encouraging algal blooms. Garden waste is a health hazard for the bush and has to be removed. Instead, think about compost, bi-annual roadside green rubbish collection, or subscribe to the Council's fortnightly green bin collection, or a private bin service.
